

```
"""
```

One-time helper: finds your Telegram chat ID so the bot knows where to send alert

Steps:

1. Set TELEGRAM_BOT_TOKEN in your .env file.
2. Open Telegram, find your bot, and send it any message (e.g. "hi").
3. Run: python get_chat_id.py

```
"""
```

```
import os
```

```
import requests
```

```
from dotenv import load_dotenv
```

```
load_dotenv()
```

```
BOT_TOKEN = os.getenv("TELEGRAM_BOT_TOKEN")
```

```
if not BOT_TOKEN:
```

```
    raise SystemExit("Set TELEGRAM_BOT_TOKEN in your .env file first.")
```

```
resp = requests.get(f"https://api.telegram.org/bot{BOT_TOKEN}/getUpdates", timeout=10)
```

```
data = resp.json()
```

```
if not data.get("result"):
```

```
    print("No messages found yet.")
```

```
    print("Open Telegram, find your bot, and send it any message (e.g. 'hi'), then
```

```
else:
```

```
    chat_id = data["result"][-1]["message"]["chat"]["id"]
```

```
    print(f"Your chat ID is: {chat_id}")
```

```
    print("Add this to your .env file as TELEGRAM_CHAT_ID")
```